Flivver Plane Is Caller at Airport on Friday Morning

Lee Abbott Flies Curtis-
Wright Junior Here
From Dallas

LANDS AT 15 M. P. H.

New Machine Designed For Public Use
at $1,490

Hope had its first glimpse of the famous new Curtis-Wright "flivver" airplane when Lee Abbott, of Dallas, flew one in here from Dallas Friday morning and started taking up passengers at $1 a head.

Known as the Curtis-Wright Junior it is a neat looking glider type of plane, fitted with a pusher engine mounted on top of the wing. This gives it the appearance in the air of a man standing on top of the wing.

Its 40 horsepower three-cylinder air-cooled engine gives it a top speed of about 70 miles per hour, while its large wingspread enables it to land at 15 miles an hour.

The demonstrations conducted Friday morning by Pilot Abbott at the local airport astonished a large crowd of aviation enthusiasts. Despite the gloomy weather the little ship carrying two men who weighed about as much as the entire plane, sped down the runway and climbed quickly to a high altitude. And on landing, it ran hardly a dozen yards before it stopped.

The Curtis-Wright Junior is a 15-year development of the great Curtis-Wright factories designed for popular use and priced at $1,490. St. Louis, including two hours' flying instruction. It averages better than 25 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and maintenance is said to be cheaper than on the average automobile.

Letters to Star Endorse Its Stand

Editor The Star: Man, I'm with you! I wish we had more men with the grit and backbone that you have. Very truly yours,

H. H. HUSKEY

Prescott Route Three.
(Mr. Huskey was foreman of the Hempstead county grand jury at the April term of court.)

Editor The Star: I wish I had the power to fittingly express my appreciation of the stand you have taken in the recent pardon case. Many editors, I am afraid, pay more attention to their policies as they affect their subscriptions than whether right or wrong—but not so with you.

There is no other matter more important before the people of our country today than that of bank failures. Many who honestly failed because of unwise connections and large transactions with other banks have had their failures attended by dishonesty and covetousness to certain depositors—and when a bank fails there is no way on earth in which we can tell all the hardships, loss, broken plans, interrupted plans, bitter feeling and misery it causes throughout the land, to both larger and small.

In many cases it falls on those least able to stand it; and then, when our law has inflicted a just sentence, all that care, trouble and cost is nullified by an official supposed to be trustworthy and responsible.

The official who should be our faithful servant, over whom we have placed the governor responsible for his deeds, can never understand why, in our methods, we have a system of law whereby law violators are sentenced and another power which nullifies the work of the same identical law system. If the courts, why the pardoning power, and if this pardoning power, why the courts?

As for the privilege of pardon being the basic principle of law, as the Candor News says, I should think it would be the basic principle of anti-law; and there may be something divine about forgiveness, but that is up to the people Atkins wronged.

This case is a powerful example and precedent, and I hope you will never alter the stand you have taken. I only wish every editor and man in the United States was like you in this matter. I am a nobody, but you have all the thanks, congratulations and appreciation it is possible for me to give you.

Girl Captures Three Who Stole Pocketbook

KANSAS CITY—(AP)—Miss Gertrude Harper, 20-year-old waitress out of work, fought with such fury to defend her lost $6.35 that three young holdup men fled in disorder, only to be captured later by the irate young woman.

Accused by the trio, the girl beat them over their heads with her pocketbook, which one of them finally snatched and ran, with Miss Harper in hot pursuit. Pausing to recruit police assistance, the waitress resumed search for her assailants.

Cotton Prospect Is Under Debate

Cotton Shippers, Says
Price Will Jump 5
Cents If Board Quits

NEW ORLEANS—(AP)—D. E. McCuen, of Greenville, S. C., president of the American Cotton Shippers' association told the members at their annual meeting here Friday that cotton would advance five cents a pound in six months "after the government retires from the merchandising of cotton."

"Let the government retire from merchandising," McCuen said, "turn its stabilization stock over to the trade at a fair price and give proper assurance it will never re-enter the market again and I will promise you an advance of five cents per pound within six months."

"Let the government continue, and the farmer is doomed."

Doctor Makes Bond On Narcotic Charge

Snowden Walker Ready to Fight Charge in
U. S. Court

TEXARKANA—Snowden Walker, a practicing physician in Texarkana since 1902, made $500 bond Thursday on federal narcotic charges on which he had been held in custody, and announced he was prepared to fight the case against him at the May term of Arkansas federal court.

He stated that his absence from Texarkana following filing of the charges against him was caused by a trip for the betterment of his health, following the death of his sister here; and that in January he suffered a nearly fatal attack of pneumonia at San Antonio.

Following his return to the home of a brother in Hempstead county, he said, he learned a report was current he was being sought by federal officers. He asked Hempstead county authorities to assist in touch with Deputy United States Marshal Clarence Bullock here, he added, and when confirmation of the report was obtained, notified the latter of his whereabouts.

Trial of Cannon Upheld By Mr. Nye

Bishop Challenges Right of Investigation of Use of Money

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Chairman Nye said Friday he believed the Senate Campaign Funds Committee had full authority to investigate the anti-Smith expenditures of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

Bishop Cannon has challenged the right of the committee to investigate the use he made of $55,000 turned over to him by a New York man to oppose former governor Smith for President.

Suspects in Bank Robbery Jailed

Taken From Madison Co.

Publicity

TEXARKANA—(AP)—The Texarkana Country Club has decreed spooners must find other grounds than the club's property for courting activities.

To back up its decree, the club has employed two night watchmen. They are not to molest courters if they find them parked on the grounds, but were instructed to slip up and take the license numbers.

W. R. Hodge, secretary of the club, has threatened to bring court prosecution for trespassing unless the spooners cease their practice.

DOWN MANY RIVERS

De Soto Sought Fabled
Fountain of Youth
in 1541

Arkansas' glorious association with historic American names, and the romance of this state's discovery and founding, was told to the Rotary club Friday at Hotel Barlow by E. E. Austin, county superintendent of schools.

Superintendent Austin was introduced on a program sponsored by Bob Huguenin of the program committee. Terrill Cornelius and E. F. McFadden made brief speeches urging attendance of local Rotarians at the district conference of state Rotary May 12-13 at Hot Springs. Guests at Friday's Luncheon were Lloyd Spencer and Mr. Austin, both of Hope.

"It was his dream of the discovery of gold and the fabled fountain of youth, that brought DeSoto into Arkansas nearly four centuries ago," said Mr. Austin.

Story of Arkansas
"The famous Spanish explorer crossed the Mississippi in 1541, and in the same year pressed on to the St. Francis, Arkansas and Ouachita rivers. He is known to have discovered Hot Springs, whose healing waters were familiar to the Indian tribes."

"DeSoto fell ill, and was restored to health by those waters. He stopped for a while at what was later to be Arkansas Post, was stricken ill a second time, and was buried in the Mississippi river in the dead of night by his frightened band of Spanish soldiers."

"One hundred and thirty years later Marquette came to Arkansas, followed by LaSalle and other noted explorers."

The succeeding high-lights of Arkansas history were noted by Mr. Austin as follows:
1588—Arkansas Post established as a French settlement, but France shortly afterward ceded the Louisiana Purchase Territory to Spain.
1800—Spain ceded the Territory back to France.

1803—Napoleon Bonaparte sold the Louisiana Purchase Territory to the United States.
1813—Arkansas had but one county. The state was then a part of the territory of Missouri, and was represented at St. Louis by Colonel Alexander Walker. It took Colonel Walker 60 days to travel from Arkansas Post to St. Louis.

Hempstead County
1819—Arkansas became a state. The capital was established at Arkansas Post. The first legislature met, comprised of the governor and four federal judges. There were then only five counties: Pulaski, Arkansas, Clark, Lawrence and Hempstead.

1822—The second legislature met, and moved the capital to Little Rock. The Arkansas Gazette had been founded in 1819 at Arkansas Post by William E. Woodruff. Its first issue was a page 12 inches square. When the Gazette was moved to Little Rock, the paper was moved with it.

1869—The first railroad entered Arkansas.
1872—The railroad reached Little Rock.
1873-74—It reached Texarkana.

"Hempstead's contribution to the state and nation is particularly significant," said Mr. Austin. "Our county has produced two United States senators, one United States Attorney General, four judges of the state supreme court and two governors."

Fair Stores Creditor in Claims Objection

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—The Rice-Six Dry Goods company of St. Louis, a creditor of the Fair Stores company Thursday had filed in federal district court here its objections to claims totaling $80,600 allowed when the Fair company went into receivership recently.

The objection alleged that Rogers Caldwell, Nashville, Tenn., financier, and J. C. Bradford, also of Nashville, former president of the Fair company, was the dominating stockholder of the "Fair Stores company," had caused the company to purchase from the 6000 shares of its own stock last October.

750 Women Visit School Last Day

Rada Sue Garrett Closes
With Greatest Crowd
in 3 Years Here

Seven hundred and fifty women heard Miss Rada Sue Garrett close the 1931 annual Cooking School at the Saenger theater Friday afternoon. The 1931 School broke all records for individual days and total attendance. Miss Garrett came here from Memphis, where she held the Commercial Appeal's Cooking School last week, and leaves tonight for Camden, where she will stage a School for the Camden News next week.

Miss Garrett opened the final session of the Hope School at 1:30 Friday afternoon, and by 3:30 it was history. The final crowd covered the entire main floor of the big theater. It was the largest attendance ever reported for a food show in the history of Hope.

The Star extends thanks to Miss Garrett, to the housewives of Hope for their keen interest, the merchants and national food advertisers for co-operating in this year's show, and to the Malco Theaters, Inc., and Manager Elliott Johnson, for the use of the big auditorium and every assistance in making the 1931 Cooking School a success.

Oklahoma City Executive Inspects Concrete on No. 67

Pavement work on highway No. 67 between Hope and Fulton was inspected Friday by three executives of E. W. Baker & Co., Oklahoma contractors who are building the road for the State Highway Department.

Those who made the inspection tour were: E. W. Baker, of Oklahoma City; Matt Beard, of Tulsa, and L. A. Stokes of Oklahoma City.

About three miles of the road has been paved. After starting from the Hope end the contractors have re-established their paving machines near Guernsey. The road is to be opened late this summer.

Unidentified Body Found In Box Car

Physicians Claim Man Had Been Dead For Several Hours

TEXARKANA—The body of an unidentified man, aged about 50, was found in a box car late Thursday at Hooks, Tex., 18 miles west of here. The car had been standing on a sidetrack, 20 days, but physicians said the man had been dead only five or six days. The man was poorly dressed and his hands indicated he was a laborer. He had no papers and the only mark that might give a clue was a label in his hat bearing the name of a merchant at Marathon, Tex.

Kansas University Landmark Razed

LAWRENCE, Kan.—(UPI)—A University of Kansas landmark has fallen before the march of progress.

The university tower towered over many a bitter class fight in the course of which the tower became almost overgrown by sprawling class memorials has been torn down to make way for a larger, but distressingly new, residence.

Twins? No, Uncle and Nephew!

It's a pretty small world, all right, when a fellow wakes up in a New York hospital to find his own uncle snoring in the next crib. That's what happened the other day when a son, left, was born to Mrs. Benjamin Alpert, who is 17, shortly before another boy, right, was born to Mrs. Samuel Teich, 36, the mother of Mrs. Alpert. The nephew and his uncle here are pictured together after they had consented to pose.

200 Capsules Object of Robbery at Crescent
Drug Store

Thieves picked the lock on the front door of the Crescent drug store, South Main street, Thursday night and stole 200 capsules of morphine and other narcotics.

The robbery was reported by Frank Ward, who owns the drugstore in partnership with Paul Bryant. Mr. Ward said the robbery was apparently staged for the sole purpose of securing the drug. The cash register was undisturbed, and only the morphine cabinet was broken into.

Longview Is Chief Supply Center Now

Oil Field Workers Throng to Growing City For Equipment

LONGVIEW, Tex.—(AP)—Longview, center of oil development and drilling and pipe line activity in the northern part of the East Texas field, is rapidly becoming the chief supply center for the entire field, according to a survey covering the city and its immediate surrounding territory.

The survey revealed twenty-eight new firms depending entirely upon the oil field work for their sustenance here. Among these are some of the largest supply companies of the United States.

Some of the nations' best machine and tool companies have opened expensive new branch plants here. All are well furnished and equipped to supply every need of the new oil field.

While these new business establishments are located in many parts of the city and surrounding oil field territory, a greater part of them have opened their branch plants at Willow Springs, Longview's new industrial site. This little place, where six months ago there was only one store and service station, is now a thriving little town-site. More than 75 new business establishments are now located there and the population is between 1,000 and 3,000.

Establishment of these large supply plants necessitated building several new switches and extra trackage on the Texas and Pacific railway. More than a half dozen new switches, which reach to the highway have been built and several miles of trackage paralleling the main line have been constructed to take care of the demands.

With the proving of a large territory in the Lathrop pool, the supply houses were quick to see the need of centrally located plants.

A list of the supply houses and machine plants with branch offices here shows that the Longview oil field has become one of the largest potential fields in the world.

BERYL BORDEN, clerk in her stepfather's Long Island store, knew that Tommy Wilson and her half-sister, Irene, planned to elope. Beryl also loved Wilson. She tried to prevent the elopement—and succeeded. Tommy and Irene made plans a second time for their marriage. Modern young people are told in Ruth Dewey Groves' absorbing new serial, "The Melody Girl." You'll want to read it beginning Wednesday in The Hope Star.

The death of a relative delayed the wedding. Then a chance visit to a New York broadcasting studio won Beryl a voice test and contract to sing on the air. Soon she was promoted to songs, trying to conceal the ache in her own heart. To forget Tommy she accepted attentions from Freddie Gaylord, son of her employer. She could not forget. WASHINGTON—(AP)—Baton Rouge, parish of East Baton Rouge and the Missouri Pacific railroad Friday filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission briefs supporting an application of the railroad for permission to operate over the tracks of the Louisiana and Arkansas railway and a new bridge to be built across the Mississippi river.

Should the Missouri Pacific obtain this permission, the briefs declare, it would open a new trunk line through Baton Rouge into New Orleans, over the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley, a subsidiary of the Illinois Central lines.

Pumpkin Prizes to Be Offered Here

Kiwanis Club Urges Establishing of New
Cash Crop

With the expectation of adding new laurels to the fame of Hempstead county, the Kiwanis club agreed to offer several prizes to stimulate the growth of pumpkins in this section, at their regular meeting at Hotel Barlow Thursday night.

Pumpkin seeds are to be given to members of the 4H clubs, to be planted this season. The club members bringing in the largest pumpkin next fall will be awarded a grand prize, and every club member in the county will be asked to try for the prizes. The club will furnish the seeds to its members, with the assistance of Mrs. Harry Shiver and E. E. Austin, county superintendent of schools. Those who secure the seeds are only asked to give their largest pumpkin to the Kiwanis club this fall.

This movement was undertaken to attempt to keep alive the splendid organization of 4H clubs throughout the county, having such time as a county home demonstration agent, and a county farm agent are again employed by the county. 4H club work was suspended last winter when the county suspended the two farm agents. It is also expected by the club that the movement may add to the number of cash crops of the neighboring farmers.

Boys' week is to be observed next week, by a complete program arranged by the Kiwanis Club. The boys' week is to be a time of opportunity holding each of the city officers for one day, electing their own mayor; city officials, police and fire officials and staffs. "Smiles" Strasser, Parks Fisher and A. E. Stonequist have charge of the Boys' Week program.

Five Texarkans, including three members of the Kiwanis club there, were guests of the club last night. Dr. R. S. Kirkpatrick, president, W. E. Coffman, Leslie Anderson, Harry Montgomery and Pat Hawkins each helped to make the program an interesting one. Pat Simpson, of Hope, recently appointed manager of the local ice plant, was a guest of Mr. Coffman, of Texarkana. Simpson was invited to join the club.

A committee composed by Dewey Hendrix, Parks Fisher and A. E. Stonequist was appointed to secure a large attendance for the All-Kiwanis night program, at Texarkana, on Monday, May 4.

Petitions Protest Against Proposed Ecclesiastical Honor

BRISTOL, Va.—(AP)—The Herald-Courier says it has learned from a leading layman of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, that a petition urging the College of Bishops not to elect Bishop James Cannon Jr., its president, is being circulated among laymen of the church.

The paper says it learns from the same source that Bishop Cannon is in line for the presidency of the college. The college will convene in Nashville May 1.

The paper quotes its informant as saying that the petition will protest against the action of 12 elders who recently passed on Bishop Cannon's character and will urge the College of Bishops not to elect him president.

Western Section Blanketed By Snow

Spring Flits Restlessly
Over Rocky Mountains,
Pacific Coast

KANSAS CITY—(AP)—Snow blanketed a large area of the west Thursday. Spring flitting restlessly over the Rocky mountains and Pacific coast states, favoring some sections with drought-breaking moisture and fanning forest fires in others.

Snow covered parts of Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Nevada and the Sierra mountains. A severe drought in Western Nevada was broken by the heaviest fall of the year, which continued early Thursday.

Scores of motor cars were stalled on the highways of the state. Tuesday, the mercury touched 82 at Reno, a new high for the year. Two feet of snow was reported at Red Lodge, Mont.

Unexpected Crisis

A FEW years hence, according to a writer in the current issue of The American Architect, every business man will be an artist.

This, it seems, will not be because of any sudden flowering of a latent creative impulse. Rather it will be because business is learning that beauty has a high sales value. Beautiful things sell better than ugly things. Everybody is going to fall in line.

"This all means," says the magazine writer, "that soon a new generation will be in our midst, a generation with a fine conception of art and beauty, a conception so fine that it will pervade all business. And so, the business man brought up in this atmosphere must of necessity be himself an artist if he is to survive the stern competition of a business world actuated by beauty."

It is at least encouraging to realize that beauty, in America, does have a high sales value nowadays. In the past—even the recent past—this has not always been quite true. Certain real estate developments on the edges of great cities, for example, have contained houses as supremely ugly as anything man ever made anywhere. There have been times when Americans went in for furniture that was frankly hideous. Some of the proudest buildings and monuments in some of our leading cities have been of a kind to give an artistic person the shudders.

So, if a new order is coming into existence, we can only be thankful. It is, of course, overdoing it a little to say that every business man will be an artist. Probably it would be nearer the mark to say that every big business man will take pains to hire artists.

All of this is just another indication that the frontier period in American life is passing. Until very recently, the entire nation was under the dominance of a frontier atmosphere, even though the actual, physical frontier had long since passed out of existence.

A frontier society values deeds above all else. It puts the does on a pedestal, and either refuses altogether to put up with the artist and the thinker or, at best, barely tolerates them. It is bound to display that attitude. It has too much work to do to display any other.

Today America is just emerging from that frame of mind. The actual hostility to beautiful things which critics of American life observed in the past is disappearing. The artist, along with other creative workers, is getting a better break.

The Cause of Crime

NO more pictures dealing with the underworld will be produced by the Paramount-Public Corporation. S. R. Kent vice president in charge of distribution, made this announcement the other day—taking pains, at the same time, to deny emphatically that gangster movies have been responsible for crime waves.

This action came only a few days after Police Commissioner Mulrooney of New York had charged that motion pictures and tabloid newspapers were chiefly responsible for the increase of crime among city youths.

Mr. Kent, explaining his company's action, said simply that crime pictures have been overdone and that the public is tired of them. Thus, while he does not accept Commissioner Mulrooney's criticism, he at least takes an action that ought to help make the commissioner happy.

The general public probably will welcome a diminution in the number of gangster movies. The general public also at least partially in agreement with the New York police commissioner; and the whole business needs a little more intelligent consideration than it usually gets.

An impressionable youngster may, now and then, be led into crime by a lurid movie; but in general it is safe to say that blaming the movies for the gang wars of the big cities is nothing but an easy way out of a perplexing situation.

As long as we can soothe our conscience by an "explanation" of that kind we shall continue to have crime waves. Indeed, one of the big reasons for bad crime conditions in American cities is the fact that all of us are content to find some obvious scapegoat like the moving picture.

We blame the movie and the tabloid and conveniently forget about the bad housing conditions that provide crime with its best spawning ground.

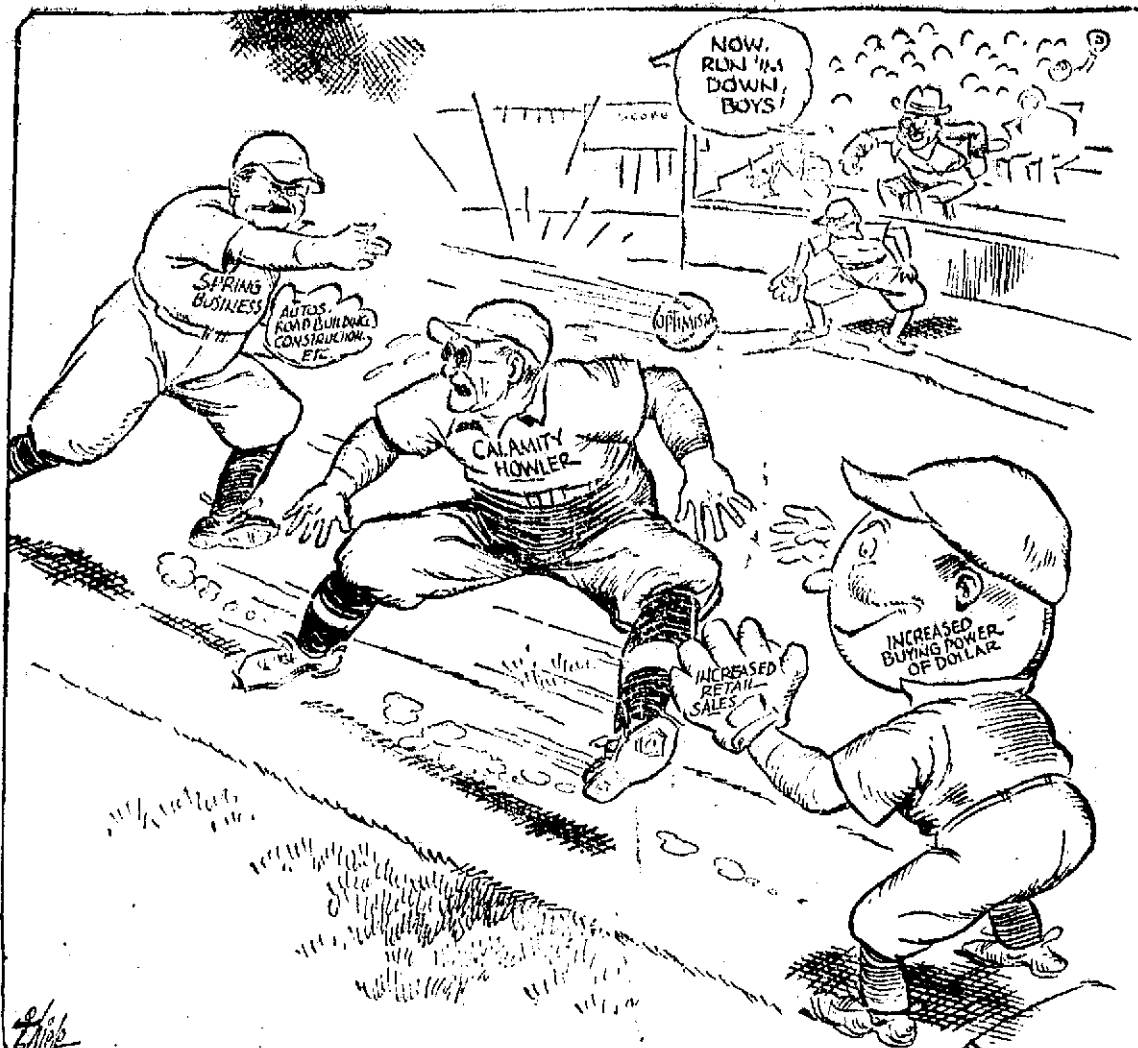

We blame the movie and the tabloid and overlook the fact that half a dozen good playgrounds, properly placed and rightly directed, would do more to keep city children from going astray than all the "uplift" in the world.

We blame the movie and the tabloid and shut our eyes to the fact that every one of us who buys a pint of gin helps to pay for the upkeep of the army of professional gunmen.

We overlook the social and economic conditions that produce big city gangs—because fixing those conditions so that they would no longer produce gangs would be altogether too much trouble. Being lazy, we prefer to put up with the gangs. Why not blame them on the movies and the newspapers? It's so much easier.

It's just about time that we gave up these cheap excuses. The roots of organized crime today go right to the foundation of American society. Cheap movies have no more to do with it than the price of bustles in Afghanistan.

Earl Brazell returned last night from Benoit, Miss., where he has been visiting the past few days. His friends may wonder why he did not stop at Arkadelphia until they learned that Arkadelphia is no win Mississippi. Or at least, his best girl, whose home is in Arkadelphia, is visiting in Benoit.

Mrs. R. M. Lagrone and children left Thursday morning for Dallas, for a visit to her sister there.

Grover Alexander Joins House of David Team

MUSCATINE, Ia.—(U.P.)—Grover Cleveland Alexander, former major league pitcher, who had carved his name in baseball's hall of fame before many present-day hurlers were out of their swaddling clothes, has joined the House of David semi-professional nine as playing manager.

Alexander, released last year from the major league, failed to make good in the minors, getting his unconditional release from the Dallas, Tex., club of the Texas League. During the rest of the last season, he barnstormed, appearing in small towns of the Middle West.

"But It Means Life or Death---!"

THE officer didn't believe her. Not until the girl in a wet bathing suit, disheveled and tearing along a country road in a battered flivver, repeated her pleading was the policeman convinced that she was really trying to find a doctor.

And every minute was so important! Back on the beach small Angie lay white-faced and motionless. Beryl had to find help to save him! She had to!

Angie's rescue from his foolish venture into the swirling waves is one of the exciting episodes in Ruth Dewey Groves' thrilling new serial, "The Melody Girl." Beryl Borden, adored by the neighborhood youngsters who make up "the gang," is the title character. She is the melody girl whose voice is eagerly listened for by thousands of radio fans. Beryl's adventures include star-domas a singer before the microphone and heartbreak when she realizes the man she loves cares for another.

Bravly Beryl meets disappointments. How she struggles on pluckily in the face of overwhelming hardships, stands by the young man when all the world turns against him, and at last arrives at happiness is told in this absorbing romance. "The Melody Girl" takes you behind the scenes in the great broadcasting studios of the metropolis.

Chisel in hand stood a sculptor boy
With his marble block before him,
And his eyes lit up with a smile of joy.

As an angel-dream passed o'er him,
He carved the dream on that shape-less stone.

With many a sharp incision;
With Heaven's own light the sculpture shown.

He'd caught that angel-vision.
Children of life are we, as we stand
With our lives uncarved before us.

Waiting the hour when, at His command,
Our life dream shall pass o'er us.
If we carve it then on the yielding stone.

With many a sharp incision,
Its heavenly beauty shall be our own,
Our lives, that angel-vision.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Whitehurst returned this evening from a business trip to points in North Arkansas and attended the state meeting of the Christian church in North Little Rock.

Mrs. J. B. Yarbrough will attend the recital Friday night or Miss Fanny Wimberly at Arkadelphia. Miss Vera Rogers, niece of Mrs. Yarbrough, who is a violinist will assist Miss Wimberly in the recital. Several other Hope citizens will attend the program.

New National Highway Will Excel in Beauty

WASHINGTON.—(U.P.)—A 150 mile highway extending the entire length of Shenandoah National Park has been planned by the Bureau of Public Roads, Interior Department, and it is believed that this will be one of the most beautiful of the great scenic highways.

Extending, as it will, through the Blue Ridge Mountains, the new proposed highway is expected to surpass all others in the country in popularity. In addition, it will come as a measure of relief to the mountain folk in the historic Blue Ridge Mountains, who are in dire straits. Too proud to accept charity, it is believed that the employment the new highway will offer will be a means of bringing material aid to the impoverished mountaineers.

The authority for the construction of the new highway has already been given the National Park Service.

Tennis Robot Big Aid to Texas U. Players

AUSTIN, Tex.—(U.P.)—Dr. D. A. Penick's famous University of Texas tennis squad has a mechanical opponent in a court robot imported from France.

The robot is a machine-gun like contrivance that shoots tennis balls at an adjustable speed to any part of the court. It is the invention of Rene Lacoste, French Davis cup player, and is particularly valuable in strengthening the weak strokes of players.

It is said that there are only two of the machines in the United States.

TOKIO.—(U.P.)—Japan's greatest marathon race, a 474 mile run from Aomori to Tokio, will start May 6 when 10 regular contestants take off from Aomori on the long grind.

The course is divided into 12 sections and contestants must cover one section each day, or be disqualified.

The race is sponsored by the Shoken kai, or Health Promotion Society, with the support of Japan's greatest newspaper, the Osaka Mainichi.

This will be the third running of the race which previously was held over a 200 mile course between Tokio and Osaka.

Pigalle's Only Bust of Voltaire Purchased

ST. LOUIS.—(U.P.)—What is believed to be the only bust of Voltaire, famous French philosopher, moulded by Jean Baptiste Pigalle, noted sculptor has been purchased by the City Art Museum here.

The bust was purchased at the time another bust, believed to be a part of a statue of a saint, or an angel, by an unidentified sculptor was purchased for $4,800. The Voltaire bust cost $4,000.

It was believed that the Voltaire bust is older than a full sized statue of the philosopher made in 1770 which now stands in the Institute of France. The only other example of Pigalle's work in this country is a reproduction of Madame Pompadour.

Rockne's Sons Carry on Despite Their Sorrow

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—(U.P.)—Knut Rockne, Jr., and his brother, Bill, imbued with the fighting spirit and fine principles that made their father one of the most famous football coaches of all time, are continuing their school work here "just as Dad would want us to do."

Knut, Jr., 11, and Bill, 14, have readjusted their minds and hearts to a new life. In the words of their Pembroke school pals, the Rockne boys are "plenty gritty."

"Me? I'm going to be a football coach just like my father," Knute, Jr., said. "Bill and I are going to Notre Dame later on. Our Dad went to school there and coached there so it's our school, too."

Knut, Jr.—"Junny," his school-mates call him—is more like his father than Bill. Young Knute reads sport magazines avidly, was captain of a football team at Pembroke. In the school office, is a gold plate engraved with the name of Knute Rockne, Jr. It explains that he was the high point winner in the Junior Class at last year's track and field meet.

Knute, Jr., is in the sixth grade; Bill in the seventh.

Young Knute's and Bill's room at Pembroke is full of mementos of their father, pictures of him, presents he sent them and other odds and ends dear to a school boy's heart.

British Surgeon Praises Legs of Batavian Women

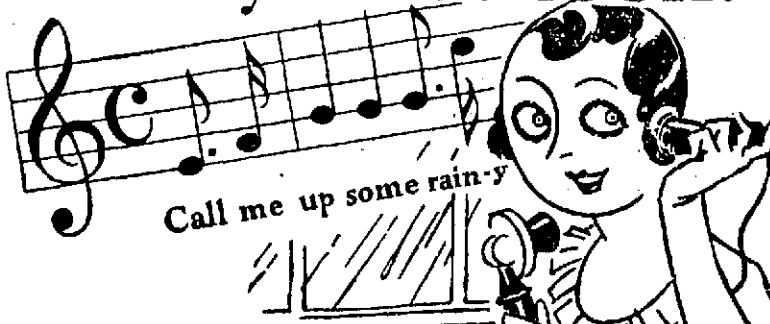

LONDON.—(U.P.)—There are no bow-legs in Batavia, according to Sir John Bland-Sutton, famous British surgeon.

Neither are there knock-knees, or rickets, he discovered while on a world tour with his wife. In fact, Batavia would be an ideal place for Dr. Ziegfeld and other producers to recruit their choruses and gather inspiration for theme songs.

"In Batavia," Sir John said, "we found young girls whose fine figures and perfect limbs I would like to see on every young woman in this country."

"No bow-legs or knock-knees there. True, the sun is constant and these

New Transmission May Mean Change in Outos

MEXICO, Mo.—(U.P.)—A new era has dawned in the automotive industry, a Mexico garageman was convinced today, following trials of an automobile transmission he has patented.

Bruce Ridgeway, the inventor, recently made a trial trip in his touring car, in which the device has been installed, and has organized a company for its manufacture and sale. The transmission, according to Ridgeway, automatically gears the car to higher or lower speed in accordance with road pull. Ridgeway's trial run, made through the streets of Mexico, was fairly reminiscent of the early days of automobiles, crowds of curious following him.

Book on Salads is Offered Free Here

Mary B. Murray's Book May Be Obtained by Writing Star

So many women were anxious to get copies of Mary B. Murray's new booklet on appropriate salad dressings, which was offered during the sessions of the Hope Star's Cooking School, that the supply of booklets was soon exhausted. And, as a result, many women in the audience failed to get their copy.

Miss Murray's booklet is already being called the bluebook of modern salad service. It tells you what dressings go best with what salads and how to serve salads according to the customs and fashions of today.

If you were one of those who did not get a copy of Miss Murray's booklet, and want it send your name and address to the Hope Star and one will be sent to you. The Hope Star, has made special arrangements with the Western Oil and Snowdrift people, who published Miss Murray's book, so that every reader of this paper who wants a copy may have one. All you have to do is to send us your name and address.

British Air Speed Demon Baffles All Physicians

LONDON—(U.P.)—Flight Lieutenant G. H. Stanforth, one of Britain's pilots for this year's Schneider Trophy contest, is known as "the man who baffles the doctors."

High speed pilots, when making a turn at great speed become totally blind for a second or so, owing to the changing pressure affecting the blood circulation. This experience is known as the "blind spot." Stanforth, however, never experiences this sensation, even when turning his plane at 300 miles an hour, and the doctors are unable to account for his immunity.

He was a member of the team which refined the trophy in the 1929 race and is expected to be the chief figure in Britain's attempt to win the race for the third consecutive year and thus make the trophy her own property.

Science Wars Over Definition of Sleet

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The world of science is in the midst of one of its frequent wars, but this one concerns a most important matter. What is sleet? Science can give a thousand answers to that question. Sleet, according to the Weather Bureau here, is frozen raindrops. This kind of sleet occurs only in winter and can be shoveled about like sand. Most meteorologists agree with the weather bureau.

Sleet, says engineers, is a coating of ice on trees and wires and tracks and streets. The weather bureau insists that this is glaze, but the engineers remain adamant.

A trip to jolly old England gives an entirely new version. Sleet, as Englishmen see it at home, is just a mixture of rain and snow.

Mr. Noah Webster, Yankee thought he was, sided with the English.

British Newspapers Honor Memory of Knute Rockne

LONDON—(U.P.)—Leading British newspapers have carried considerable news and comment about the death of Knute Rockne. Many sporting sections have contained articles about his career and his importance to American football. The Evening Standard in an article entitled "Dead King Knute," said: "No more will the stentorian cries of Knute Rockne instill mankilling desires into the students of Notre Dame, America's most famous football university."

"No more will the players respond with tigerish tackles and plunge through the human morass as, in frantic enthusiasm, their famous coach Knute Rockne, urges them on with gestures which English footballers would only attribute to a maniac."

"Such was Rockne's enthusiasm that when attacked by phlegm he would have his wheel-chair drawn to the touchlines (sidelines) and, rich and luscious expletives he would galvanize his team through their match."

All of the London newspapers compared the career of the famous South Bend mentor with the football life of Herbert Chapman, manager of the Arsenal football club and probably Britain's greatest association football manager.

MAD MARRIAGE

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN Author of 'HEART HUNGRY' etc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Gypsy McHardie, 10-year-old New York triplet, married JIM WALLACE the day after she met him at the home of her wealthy cousin, ANN TROW-BRIDGE. Gypsy has been joined by ALAN CROSBY, just returned from a year and a half in Paris studying art. Wallace's fiancée has broken their engagement to marry a richer man.

Jim and Gypsy go to Forest City where Jim has a thriving law practice. His relatives and Gypsy's relatives are all there. Gypsy's relatives are all there. Gypsy's relatives are all there.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV

GYPSEY paused on the threshold of the large room and surveyed it. She could not have told what prompted her to suggest this meeting place. Perhaps it was Alan's interest in art. The room was used to exhibit traveling collections of paintings. Gypsy had been there once before to see the work of a group of Mexican artists.

The place had been almost deserted then. Now several couples were studying the pictures, standing or else leaning back in the row of camp chairs down the center of the room.

She saw Alan and her heart quickened its beat. His back was toward her. Alan appeared to be absorbed in a canvas. He stood almost in the center of the room. How slender and well built he looked in the gray suit.

"Well, I've come," she said in a low voice.

He turned, smiling. "And I've been waiting since before three."

Two young women who looked as though they might be school teachers passed in front of them, sat down near by.

Crosby glanced down at Gypsy. "Isn't there some place," he asked, "where we might have a little more privacy?"

She nodded. "We'll try to find some place. This won't do."

They left the exhibition room. Outside a broad balcony looked down over the central office of the library. At the far end of the balcony there was a bench. Gypsy and Alan walked toward this bench and sat down.

"Now before you begin," Crosby said, trying to keep his voice low, "I want to tell you that the very day you left New York—the same day you were married, I guess—I tried to find you to tell you I was sorry for what had happened. I telephoned and Mrs. O'Hare told me you'd gone away. She wouldn't say where. It was after I went back there—after I lost my job—that she told me the real truth. Gypsy, whatever made you do it?"

"Do what?"

"Run away from me the way you did. Without even saying goodbye!"

"But, Alan, I didn't think you'd be interested. There was your new friend, Mrs. Langley."

"Are you trying to remind me what a fool I've been? I admitted it, didn't I? Mrs. Langley! She was the worst of the lot. Gypsy, it was her fault I lost my job. She was the one who told me running around to parties all night was the way to get ahead in New York. Well, it wasn't long before she was through with a penniless artist! Picked up a violinist who could write love songs for her."

Suddenly Crosby stopped talking and looked at the girl. "What's the good of going on this way, Gypsy?" he said then pleadingly. "I've told you everything I've tried since you went away has been a failure. I've cursed myself a thousand times for an idiot. It isn't too late, darling. It isn't too late if we both have the courage! I—I love you so much!"

The girl turned away from him.

"I'm sorry, Alan," she said slowly. "I came here to tell you that it will have to be goodbye."

"But I'm never going to let you go again! Gypsy, if you'll come away with me there isn't anything we can't do in the whole world. I'll work hard. I'll make you proud of me. You can't have forgotten the wonderful days we used to have together! You can't say no, darling. Your heart won't let you!"

Still she was avoiding his eyes.

"You don't understand, Alan," she told him. "You see—it is my heart."

Crosby stared at her. "You mean," he said slowly, "that you're happier here? You mean you love Jim Wallace?"

Misted lashes made the girl's eyes starry. She nodded. "Six months ago," she said, "if you'd told me all this everything would have been different. I cared so much for you then! I thought it was love. When you talked to me about Mrs. Langley—told me how beautiful she was—I was terribly jealous. That night I saw you with her I thought I didn't even want to live. I was miserable—oh, I thought no one in the world had ever been so unhappy! When I married Jim it was to get away. I was honest with him. He knew there was someone else I cared for. But he's wonderful, Alan. He didn't ask a single question about the other man. Even now he doesn't know. I've changed since I've come here. I'm not the same girl."

"What are you trying to tell me is that—that I'm out of it. Is that what you mean?"

"We can be friends, Alan."

He did not answer. Presently he picked up his hat, whirling it carelessly.

"Well," he said in a tone of forced brightness, "I expect you'd like to have me get out of here, wouldn't you? Sorry I've been such an idiot."

"You're not an idiot. Please don't talk that way, Alan. Promise me you're going to feel that we're friends!"

"All right. We're friends. The kind who never see each other and send a card every Christmas. Do you want a card with holly on it or would you prefer angels?"

There was a note in his voice that frightened the girl.

"I don't want you to go away feeling like this," she told him. "You'll find another girl you care more for than you think you do for me. You see, it's really true—what you told me in New York. We were just youngsters when we had those good times together. I'll never forget them. They were wonderful! But it wasn't because of you or me. It was because we were at the age when we were beginning to find out how exciting the world is. I wish you'd come to see us when you're in town. Jim likes you."

Crosby rose. "It's all right, Gypsy," he said. "I know what you're trying to do. It's a very kind of you. Suppose we just forget the last sad rites and let it go at that. I hope he'll be good to you. Good by—"

He had walked a few yards when he turned and came back to her. He took Gypsy's hand.

"If there's every anything I can do for you," he said, "promise you'll let me know. I'd like to feel there's that chance for me. Will you do that?"

"Of course I will. It's sweet of you to say such a thing."

"I'm not just saying it. I mean it. Here—" he handed her a business card. "This address will reach me. Goodby, Gypsy. Good luck!"

FOR several minutes after he had gone the girl sat there. The balcony was shadowed and no one was near. She let the tears come and leaned back against the wall. Partings had always been hard for Gypsy. This one marked the termination of a precious part of her girlhood. It was something she would never know again. Alan was gone and so was the girl who had adored him.

Gypsy closed her eyes for a moment. A dozen hazy memories crowded before her—moonlight on the boat to Coney Island with Alan beside her, dinner at Pietro's, dancing with Alan, sitting while Alan made numberless sketches, only to tear them up, late suppers in Mrs. O'Hare's kitchen. How far away all that seemed!

She opened her eyes, brushed away the tears and dabbed at her cheeks with a flay powder puff. Gypsy sighed. Then she went down the stairs to the first floor of the library.

A row of books with the placard, "Timely and interesting," above them caught her attention. She remembered a new biography which Jim had said he was anxious to read. It was not along the volumes on the desk.

Gypsy approached one of the girls behind the counter and asked for the book. It was listed but was "out."

As Gypsy turned away she noticed that by the clock in the entrance it was 10 minutes after four. By a surprising turn of the weather the day was cool. She decided to stop at the Plaza tea room for a cup of tea. It wasn't the tea she cared about. It was the chance to be alone a little longer. A chance to be alone with her thoughts.

She entered the tea room, and sat down at a table near the wall. A waitress asked for her order and presently returned with it.

A woman across the room smiled at Gypsy and the girl nodded. The woman was with two others and immediately turned back toward her companions.

Gypsy drank the hot tea. If any one had told her six months ago that she was to send Alan Crosby away how she would have scoffed! Now he was gone and Gypsy's only feeling was one of pity for him. Alan would get over it, of course. He would get over it the same as she had.

That was the really amazing thing! She had recovered completely from the spell of infatuation for Alan. How had it happened? When? She had no idea. Gypsy only knew that after the first few minutes Saturday, when the shock of seeing Alan again had worn away, she suddenly was aware that the rest had gone too.

SHE did not love Alan Crosby. She did love Jim. She was amazed to discover that this feeling which she had called friendliness, loyalty, understanding—half a dozen different names—was something deeper. Oh, this was love now! She was sure of it. This was love that she felt for Jim Wallace.

Jim's kindness, his strength, that sturdy dependability which had never failed her, his gentleness came back to the girl in a hundred manifestations. How could she possibly have been so blind? She loved Jim. Did Jim feel the same way? Oh, she hoped so! She thought of his attentiveness during her illness. That must mean something.

There was a telephone booth in the rear of the tea room. Gypsy entered the booth. She gave the operator the number of Jim's office. The secretary's voice answered. "Is Mr. Wallace in?" Gypsy asked.

"Mr. Wallace has gone for the day," she was informed.

Disappointed, Gypsy returned to her seat. She had hoped to ride home with Jim. If he had gone all ready she ought to be on her way. She paid the check, stepped out on the street and hailed a taxi.

Excitedly she began to plan for the evening. She would put on the printed chiffon dress. Jim had complimented her the first time she wore it. They would have dinner served by candlelight. Afterward when she and Jim were alone together they would sit on the davenport and talk.

Gypsy straightened. It occurred to her suddenly that there was only one way to let Jim know how much she cared for him. She would tell him the truth. She would tell him who Alan really was and that what she had mistaken for love was only infatuation, quickly killed.

When the cab stopped Gypsy gave the driver a bill and, without waiting for change, ran up the walk to the house.

"Mr. Wallace came in a while ago and went out again," Matilda informed her. "No, he didn't leave any message."

Gypsy was waiting for him, wearing the becoming chiffon frock and smiling, when Jim entered the house. It was after six o'clock.

"You look tired, dear," she told him.

Jim sank into a chair facing her. "Gypsy," he said in an oddly unnatural voice, "I want you to free me."

French Plan Academy For Phonetic Arts

PARIS—Wireless broadcasting has reached the point where it is an art and there is an active movement in France to create an Academy of arts, movies, medicine, sciences and other branches of human endeavor.

The Academy of Phonetic Arts would consist of 40 "immortals," deans of all branches of wireless transmission who would be qualified to contribute to the progress of radio by theory and practice.

French children have let it be known in no uncertain tones that they are tired of bedtime stories. Many juvenile radio fans have written to the postal department that on hour should be set aside every day for children to amuse other children over the radio.

The idea has taken on and the French official broadcasting system now includes a juvenile hour, with youthful performers reciting poetry, executing Chopin and telling fairy-tales.

BILIOUSNESS DRIVEN AWAY

"Feel So Much Better After a Few Doses of Thedford's Black-Draught."

"When I get bilious, I lose my appetite, feel dull and tired, and do not feel like doing my work," writes Mrs. S. M. Fulton, of Fort Payne, Ala.

"I take a few doses of Black-Draught until I feel my system is cleansed, then I leave it off. It is about the only medicine I take, and I am sixty-nine years old."

"I have been using Black-Draught for about twenty-five years, and think it is wonderful."

Mrs. D. W. DeShane, of 4218 South Twenty-fifth Street, Redford, Tulsa, Okla., also has used Black-Draught, and she writes:

"I felt the need of a good medicine for biliousness. I saw Black-Draught advertised and decided to use it. I have never been sorry, for I certainly have found it a great help in my family."

"I would have dizzy spells and feel like I was going to faint. I would have had breath and had taste in my mouth. I found Black-Draught would clear this up and make me feel so much better. After a few doses, I would be rid of dizziness and feel full of pep."

BLACK-EYED SUSAN SALAD

Arrange five halves of canned apricots on a slice of pineapple with round sides up. Place a cooked prune in the center and serve with Fruit Dressing.

FRUIT DRESSING

Mix four tablespoons of Wesson Oil, two tablespoons of lemon juice, a tablespoon of orange juice, a half teaspoon of salt, three-fourths of a teaspoon of sugar and a half teaspoon of paprika. Beat until the oil and the fruit juices are thoroughly combined.

Another salad that you may appropriately serve at a bridge is one of the simplest of all to make.

GRAPEFRUIT BASKET SALAD

Cut a small grapefruit in basket shape. Fill with wedge-shaped pieces of grapefruit, Dole's pineapple and halved cherries. Lay a spray of glossy leaves on the plate and serve with Bar-le-Duc Dressing.

BAR-LE-DUC DRESSING—Beat together six tablespoons of Wesson Oil, two tablespoons of lemon juice, a teaspoon of salt and one-fourth teaspoon of paprika. And into this mix six tablespoons of red Bar-le-Duc or current jelly.

HEAD LETTUCE SALAD

Quarter a small head of lettuce. Each salad portion should consist of one of the quarters, served cut side up, covered with a generous helping of Roquefort Cheese Dressing and surrounded by sprays of watercress.

ROQUEFORT CHEESE DRESSING—Crush one-fourth of a pound of Roquefort Cheese and add a little Wesson Oil until the mixture is smooth. Use vinegar and Wesson Oil alternately until the dressing is just thick enough to pour. Season with a teaspoon of salt and one-fourth teaspoon of pepper.

SHRIMP ASPIC

Cook one can of tomato sauce with five times the amount of water, adding a stalk of celery, half an onion, half a lemon, sprig of parsley, a bay leaf and salt and pepper to taste, until the mixture measures only three cups. Add one cup of cold water in which one envelope (two tablespoons) of gelatin has been dissolved. Add two cups of boiled, peeled, chopped shrimp, one cup of minced celery, and six diced hard-boiled eggs. Pour into a ring-mold, and when set, turn out on a platter, garnish with lettuce, and serve with a small bowl of Chili Sauce Dressing in the center of the ring.

CHILI SAUCE DRESSING—Mix six tablespoons of Wesson Oil, two tablespoons of vinegar, one teaspoon of salt, one-fourth teaspoon of pepper, a dash of paprika and one-fourth teaspoon of onion juice and beat well. Then add two tablespoons of Chili Sauce and mix until smoothly blended.

Mayor to Quit Boston

BOSTON, (U.P.)—Boston will be as noiseless as a metropolis can be, if Mayor James M. Curley has his way. He has instructed the city planning board to survey the situation and make recommendations with a view to eliminating unnecessary din.

Forgery Is on Increase

bile theft has predominated juvenile law infractions in recent years, forgery rapidly is assuming alarming proportions. However, W. H. Baillie, head of Oregon's training school for boys, believes that the boys of today are less law breaking than those of 40 years ago.

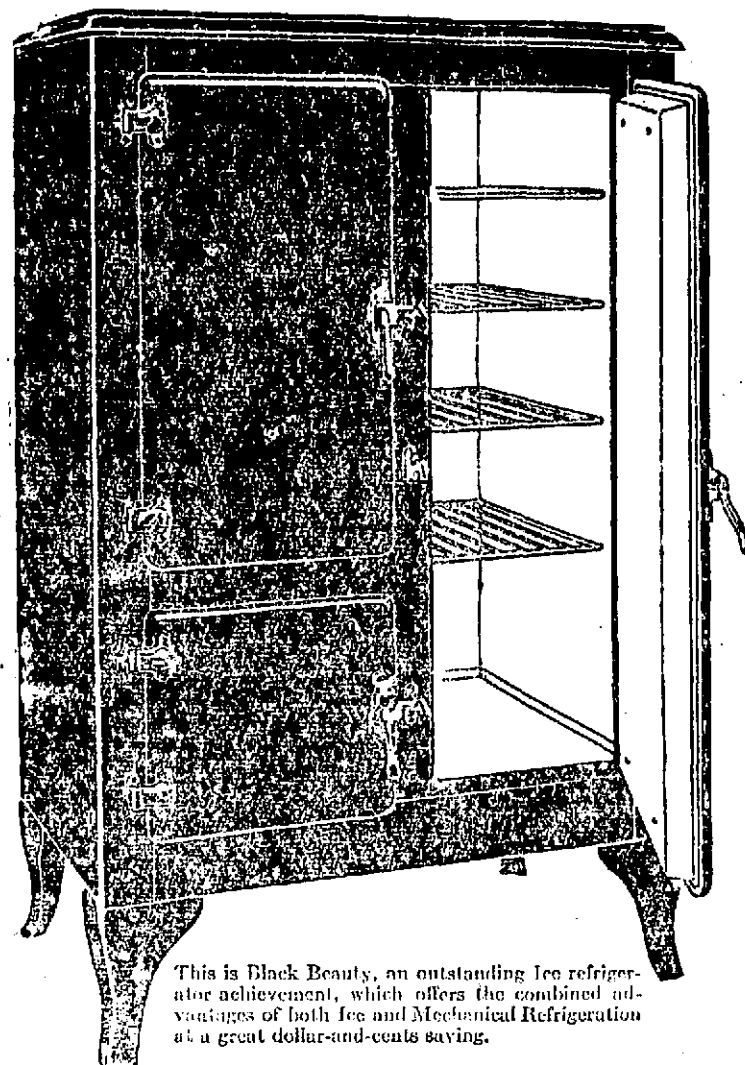

Ammonia Bottle Needed Accessory For Autos

NEW ORLEANS, (U.P.)—The well-ac-

cessoried automobile should carry a bottle of ammonia as antidote for carbon monoxide fumes, says Dr. Adrian Hava, authority on carbon monoxide poisoning.

Dr. Hava said that when a person becomes overcome by the fumes of the exhaust, artificial respiration is the treatment and ammonia is the antidote. A cloth saturated with ammonia should be waved before the face, if the patient revives.
